

white villages

DAY 2 OF OUR ERASMUS TRIP TO GRENANDA

FEBRURAY 3RD:

*discovery of the cities of Frigiliana
and Nerja*

what are the white villages ?

The “White Villages” of southern Spain are small traditional villages located in the mountains of Andalusia, especially near Granada and the Sierra Nevada. These villages are famous for their white-painted houses, narrow streets, and beautiful landscapes. The white color of the houses helps keep the buildings cool during the hot Spanish summers.

These villages are full of history and culture. Many of them were influenced by Arab civilization during the Middle Ages, which can still be seen in the architecture special fountain that represented the three religions: Christianity, Islam, and Judaism.

Frigiliana

We started the day in Frigiliana, a very charming village with white houses, narrow streets, and colorful flowers. During the visit, we had to look for a special fountain that represented the three religions: Christianity, Islam, and Judaism.

Thanks to this activity, we discovered many parts of the village, including the small streets, the church, and the lovely atmosphere of the town.

NERJA

we spent the afternoon by the sea. We really enjoyed the beautiful landscape, the beach, and the amazing view of the Mediterranean Sea. We spent a great time with all the French and Spanish students, talking, laughing, and enjoying the sunny weather together.
