

Cygnus color

Mute swan

Has a tubercle on his forehead

Sedentary

Europe and Asia (inserted in North America)

Environ 150 000

Environ 25 000

La Bégude de Mazenc

It can scream, but it isn't a powerful sound.

Looking at the evolution graph of the population of mute swans in France, you can obviously see that there has been a huge increase for almost 40 years : the population of mute swans has been multiplied by 20 since 1980. From 1980 to 1985, the population remained constant. Then, from 1985 to 2000, a climb of the population got the mute swans up to 10 000. After this event, you'll notice a huge rise up till 2013. Thanks to this soar, 20 000 mute swans were identified in France in January 2013.

